

Lewis Howes Question: If there is one God why are there so many religions?

Answer: This answer is simple... rebellion. Mankind fell away from God, rebelled against God, and developed their own way. Mankind created and continues to create a religion or a form of it to justify his life, legacy and actions. That man made religion differentiates depending upon culture and geography.

Scriptural Reference: (Romans 1)

Warning: It is a hasty generalization to assume that all religions are false because there are many false religions. If Lewis shared a tough mathematical equation and asked his audience to provide an answer, he would get many wrong answers. Many wrong answers do not connote that a correct answer is non-existent. In fact, ONE correct answer does exist.

Ms. Tippetts input: If there is one God the principle of biodiversity applies to the vitality of God and the understanding of God. We need a variety of words & texts to reach toward that “thing”.

Response: If this is so, then God lies. If this is so, God tells Mohammed one thing and the Apostle Paul something else. In this case...we serve a malevolent God. If this is so....Jesus lied.

Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me.(John 14:6)
